CHINESE AMERICAN FOOD SOCIETY

A Message from the President

Dear Colleagues:

Happy Lunar New Year to you and your family.

Time went fast. Four months already passed since we issued our last newsletter and directory. I hope this newsletter will reach you before the new year of dragon. I am presenting the committee member name list and the correspondent duty to you again in case you have a special information/message/story to one of our operational committees.

I like to share with you some publicity we did in the past several months:

1. Cathy Ang, Yao Wen Huang, Nancy C. Lu, Joseph Jen, Robert Ma, Taylor Chang, Andi Ou Chen, and Y. C. Jao attended The 7th World Congress of Food Science and Technology in Singapore ( Sep.26- Oct.2 ).

2. In the period of Oct 5 to 16, Cathy, Yao Wen and Y. C. either jointly or separately engaged in the following activities in Taiwan: a. Yao Wen coordinated a symposium in which Y.C. participated in National Taiwan College of Marine Science and Technology. b. Wen Yao visited Food Industry research & Development Institute ( FIRDI ). c. Three of us visited Food and Agriculture Department, Council of Agriculture; Graduate Institute of Food Sci. & Tech. National Taiwan Uni.; and Development Center for Biotechnology.

It was a very busy trip for all of us. We also presented an appreciation plaque to Mr. Chung-Ping Huang, Deputy Director of FIRDI for its 20th anniversary celebrations.

One year is too short to accomplish very much. I need your support and participation to make my efforts to our society meaningful. I wish you all have a very best new year.

Sincerely yours

Y. C. Jao      January 18'88

台灣之行 TRIP TO TAIWAN, ROC

During Oct. 5-16, 1987 (after the Singapore meeting), Y. C. Jao, Yao-Wen Huang and myself visited several organizations in Taiwan, including the Institute of Food Science and Technology, National Taiwan University and the Center for Biotechnology in Taipei. Both were very impressive. They have good facilities and excellent research programs.

We also visited the Council of Agriculture (行政院 農業委員會) and had a brief meeting with several food technologists there. They expressed that they would welcome more of our members to visit and they would try to arrange for tours (processing plant, etc.) with 3-weeks notice. The address and telephone is:

台北市 南海路 37 號, 電話 331-7541, 林子清 先生

Y. C. Jao, representing CAFS, presented a plaque to Mr. Chung-Ping Huang, the Deputy Director of Food Industry Research and Development Institute, for the Institute's 20th anniversary. (Y. C. gave the plaque to Mr. Huang in Singapore because neither of them could wait...). Yao-Wen Huang paid a special visit to FIRDI in Hsin-chu for the celebration.

Yao-Wen also coordinated a symposium in National Taiwan College of Marine Science and Technology, Keelung. Y. C. participated but I missed it because I was in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia for another meeting.

We enjoyed our trips. We like to hear about yours.

恭賀新喜！恭祝各位龍年鴻運昌隆！

第七屆世界食品會議追記

The 7th World Congress of Food Science and Technology, Singapore, 1987---by CATHY ANG

The 7th World Congress of Food Science and Technology held in Singapore (9/28-10/2/87) was very interesting and memorable to me. More than 1000 delegates from about 50 countries attended the conference. Several hundred papers were presented in the technical sessions. There were also exhibits and poster papers, but those did not attract much attention.

The interesting part to me was to have the opportunity to see and meet food technologists from all over of the world. A lot of them from Australia, Thailand, Philippines, Japan, etc. About 100 people from the USA, including many of our members (Kun-Yu Chang, Yao-Wen Huang, Y. C. Jao, Joseph Jen, John Lu, Nancy Lu, B. S. Luh, James Moy and Robert Ma, etc.). Taiwan, ROC had a delegation of 30+ persons (including CAFS members: Taylor Chang and Andi Oh Chen) and mainland China send a team of 8 people. Of course, many other delegates from other parts of South-east Asia, such as Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, Philippines, Indonesia, Hong Kong, and Brunei, are of Chinese descent, and we almost held a sub-meeting in Mandarin. The opening ceremony of the Congress--the big and loud dragon dance was very impressive.

Singapore is a pretty, clean and modern city. I enjoyed my visit to Singapore and the World Congress.

The next Congress will be in Toronto, Canada, 1991. Plan now to attend. Save your time and money for this event. It will be fun.

A REPORT ON CAFS FORUM SURVEY

By Y. C. Jao

Time: June 16, 1987

Place: Las Vegas, Nevada

1. How do you like the forum? Great
2. Do you think this forum long enough? Just right
3. Do you think the topics suitable? Good
4. My suggestions for the future topics are:
  - a. Different type of job experience: Research/Development; Production; Education; Management; Self starting business etc.
  - b. Children of Chinese Professionals: Their education, growths and development in the U.S.A.
  - c. Turning point at age 50's: Pre-retirement and second career development.
5. My suggestion for the future speakers are:
  - a. Some retired or near retired members.
  - b. Dr. Rose Tseng.
6. Other comments and suggestions:
  - a. Do no schedule this program in the first day afternoon.
  - b. Informal atmosphere is very good.
  - c. We need to contact students more, or have a separate session just for students if the topic is for students.

OOPS! We goofed. In last issue of CAFS Newsletter, Yen-Con Hung was inadvertently omitted from our list of Membership and Public Relationship Committee.

What's the Right Tip?

A Guide to the Gratuity Game

For many business travelers, nothing is more baffling than the ancient practice of tipping.

If you don't tip enough, you may feel the cold stare of a waiter — right in front of several business colleagues. Or, if you've over tipped, you can feel a bit foolish. In any case, it's wise to remember that service people earn their living from tips.

taxis worldwide. But in some countries — for example, Japan — there's no tipping.

Limos. The taxi rule applies. But watch out if your company or host is supplying the car. The free ride might include the tip. Ask the driver. You might, however, want to give the driver $3-$5, especially if it's a long ride.

Bellmen. Give bellmen 75 cents per bag in a com-eral consensus: It's nice to leave some dollars behind. About $2-$3 a day is sufficient.

Again, in European and Far East hotels, watch out. Chambermaid fees go right on your bill as part of an all-inclusive service charge.

Concierge. If you're staying a few days, tip the concierge $5-$10 for a few inquiries and restaurant recommendations. (There is no fee for concierge services.) Give a little extra for repeated assistance. It's not a bad idea to tip in advance if you expect to use the concierge frequently.

U.S. Restaurants. In restaurants in major cities, from New York to Los Angeles, tip 15%. Give the headwaiter $3-$5 for getting you a good table at a crowded time. And tip the wine steward $2-$3 for routine advice; $5 if he or she unobtrusively keeps your glass full.

Foreign Restaurants. Most restaurants abroad take the mystery out of tipping and simply levy a 15% service charge. If you're not sure, look at the bottom of the menu or ask the headwaiter.

When in doubt about any aspect of tipping, your hotel concierge is your best guide.

"It's wise to remember that service people earn their living from tips."

Despite widespread uneasiness about it, most of the time tipping is remarkably routine. The amount may vary according to the city, the country and the quality of service. But there's no secret as to what's appropriate. Here are some guidelines.

Airports. Give $1 to curbside skycaps who glance at your ticket and check your bags. It helps ensure that your luggage will get on the right plane.

Taxis. Tipping between 10% and 15% works just fine for most commercial hotel, $1 in a deluxe establishment.

Room Service. Hotels generally charge $1 or $2 for any kind of room service, so a tip is optional. You don't need to tip if breakfast comes with your room. But if you choose extras beyond, say, a Continental breakfast, you should tip 10%-15%. Overseas, luxury and first-class hotels put the tip (service charge) right on your bill. So don't double-tip.

Chambermaids. No one, not even a top hotel executive, can tell you exactly what to tip chambermaids. The root problem is you often can't find the person who tidied your room. The gen-

Title: The Genius of China
Author: Robert Temple
Simon and Schuster Inc., 1986
Price: @ $19.00

Through endless enthusiasms and efforts of Dr. Joseph Needham for more than 45 years, 15 out of planned 25 volumes of "Science and Civilisations in China" have been published. These volumes unfold 3000 years of undisputed masters of invention and discovery. The ancient Chinese were the first to chart the heavens, discover the circulation of the blood, and even isolate sex hormones. From the suspension bridge and the seismography to the blast furnace, iron plow, parachute, and fishing reel, ancient China's contributions in engineering, medicine, technology, math, science, warfare, transportation, and music helped inspire the European agricultural and industrial revolutions. However, these volumes are very expensive, even many libraries cannot afford them.

In 1984, Robert Temple approached Joseph Needham expressing his intention of writing a popular book for the general reader based upon Dr. Needham's half-century cumulated work. The permission was enthusiastically and readily granted. "The Genius of China" was then published in 1986. This book is a brilliant distillation of the 15 published volumes of "Science and Civilisation in China". It has also been supplemented with numerous topics (deep drilling, porcelain, stirrups and crossbows, guns and gunpowder, etc.) drawn upon type-scripts, proofs, and oral and written accounts of yet undrafted portions of future volumes. It is believed that possibly more than half of the basic inventions and discoveries upon which the "modern world" rests come from China.

In this handsomely designed, lavishly illustrated book, Robert Temple captures the spirit and excitement of centuries of ingenuity and development into 254 pages and 11 parts for easy browsing and accurate reference:

- Agriculture
- Engineering
- Medicine and Health
- Magnetism
- Transportation and Exploration
- Warfare
- Astronomy and Cartography
- Domestic and Industrial Technology
- Mathematics
- The Physical Sciences
- Sound and Music

Readers, especially of Chinese heritage, definitely will find this book very informative and of great interest. It bridges the mental chasm between East and West, and provides opportunities to have a clearer understanding of each other. You may have to buy more than one copy to avoid fighting among family members in deciding who is going to read first!
